TEACHING PLANNING

COURSE OBJECTIVES – FIRST UNIT: Learning and educational context

Aimed to delve into teaching and educational aspects in order to analyze, consider and assess the current guidelines and patterns of children and teenagers teaching. Some of the essential keys will be reviewed, such as competence teaching, constructivist learning, learning autonomy, critical thought development, artistic and intercultural awareness, learning visual environments. This unit also deals with how to schedule and plan teaching as well as how to assess competences, how to turn the evaluation into a training, innovation and improvement tool and a democratic and critical activity.

Subjects

- Contemporary teaching processes and educational contexts
- Educational innovation and introduction to classroom research
- Schedule, planning and evaluation

COURSE OBJECTIVES – SECOND UNIT: Hispanic cultures

This unit will work on the different cultural aspects such as Arts, History and Literature looking for a dual aim. On the one hand to deepen some symbolic Hispanic curiosities, movements, events or historical and artistic personalities; and on the other hand to provide a contemporary vision of the development carried out in those areas regarding children and teenagers teaching, as the way to train future sensitive and engaged citizens. This unit aims to offer views, ways of acting and paths for future teachers to develop and cover from their own and personal experience and condition. The idea is to improve their own knowledge, to make them develop their cultural and artistic awareness, to have models for them to transfer to their own working environments, to make them develop their skills to learn more and to work independently on those areas of the school curriculum.

Subjects

- History, culture and environment.
- Contemporary Spanish and Latin American literatura.
- Audiovisual narrative.

COURSE OBJECTIVES – THIRD UNIT: Linguistics applied to Spanish teaching

It focuses on Spanish as a foreign or second language and on its teaching. To do so, it will provide an overview of the current methodological principles of teaching foreign languages, focusing on some new approaches, such as language and contents integrated models. It will analyze the main grammatical, phonetic and lexical difficulties for non-native Spanish speakers and will provide teaching models to work with in class. Another important part in this unit is the one related to communication skills, particularly to their teaching approaches.

Subjects

- Current methodology and didactics in Spanish prospects L2/LE
- Teaching content and language integrated. The programs AICLE
- The teaching of the Spanish language
- Development of skills and communication skills

COURSE OBJECTIVES - FORTH UNIT: language and culture teaching

It aims to deepen the way to bring to the class those humanities contents. And at the same time, it offers information about resources, strategies and tools for teaching Spanish / LE. And since the teacher's task doesn't only consist teaching in class, part of the unit will focus on preparing students for the evaluation of all available material and, above all to prepare their own teaching material, to use themselves and to share (projects to the school, publishing projects). Students must choose three subjects among all the courses included in this unit.

Optional courses

- Music, theatre, cinema and teaching
- Evaluation and development of teaching materials
- Contemporary history. Critical analysis of recent history
- TIC teaching of Spanish as a foreign language
- Strategies, techniques and games to teach the language and culture
- Cultures of the visual in educational settings
- Philosophy for Children. Development of critical thinking
